

Attention, the Winter Garden of the Ursuline nuns is closed for restoration works. From this date on, visits are temporarily not possible. The Winter Garden will reopen its doors on the 24th of May. However, you can already book tickets via the Winter Garden website (<https://www.visitwintertuin.be/en/home/>).

An Art Nouveau gem

Step into the enchanting world of the former international boarding school for girls in Onze-Lieve-Vrouw-Waver. Let yourself be guided along impressive highlights of the historic building complex and visit the breathtaking Winter Garden from 1900 in art-nouveau style. The magnificent stained-glass dome creates a magical play of light and colour and will undoubtedly leave you in awe.

Resplendent Art Nouveau

We have no idea what prompted the Ursuline nuns in Onze-Lieve-Vrouw-Waver to make the rather bold decision to build this truly magnificent Art Nouveau building. After all, this style was considered hyper-modern in 1900. And yet, this enchanting Winter Garden with its colourful stained glass cupola was considered the most stunning feature of their boarding school, for young girls from good families. What's even more intriguing is that nobody knows who designed the Winter Garden. And yet the architect's design skills are unparalleled.

Don't believe us? Well, come take a look for yourself because this is Art Nouveau at its most resplendent.

It's always spring in the winter garden

Entering the Winter Garden feels like a never-ending spring. Just look around at the enchanting interaction between light and colour! Rays of gold shoot across the multi-coloured glass cupola. It has a Morning, Day and Evening side, which are popular themes in Art Nouveau. The glass panes are simply teeming with plants and animals. And because it is a garden after all there are also several ferns, plants and flowers.

Step into a different world

The Winter Garden is part of a magnificent listed complex, which is a stunning mix of architectural styles including Art Nouveau with neo-Gothic elements, neo-Empire style and Art Deco. It's as if you have stepped into a different world. Names like the Empire Corridor, the Alpine Room, the La Fontaine refectory, the Piano Gallery and the Grand Staircase will spark your imagination.

Experience trail

Set off on your own with an audio guide. The experience trail takes visitors back to the heyday of the Ursuline Institute in the early twentieth century. Along the way, travel back in time to the world of the sisters and their boarding school for girls. Interactive multimedia applications will allow you to discover the history and beautiful architecture of this unique place.

This listening tour takes you through the highlights of the heritage site and invites you to discover the Winter Garden and surrounding spaces at your own pace. You choose how long you want to listen, look and pause.
